The crisis in the Dominican Republic and America's role concerning it was voted into seventh place by the editors. The death of Winston Churchill ranked number eight in importance.

Neglection Or Election?

The Student Government on campus is designed on democratic principles and operates according to a written constitution adopted this past year by the students. A democratic government is purportedly the "voice of the governed." Yet judging from the apathy of students in the past, most of the "governed" on campus could care less whether the campus is run under democratic or, for instance, anarchist principles. Voting turnout in past elections has been considerably less than desirable. Most students "can't find the time" to take the few minutes needed to cast a ballot.

Not only is there a lack of interest in voting but there is also a marked apathetic attitude toward the activities of the Student Senate. The senators are representatives of the students; yet, if students fail to voice their opinions on the issues, the senators cannot conceivably be expected to reflect the attitude of the campus as a whole.

Scheduled for January 25 is a special election for a new secretary of communications and the campus leaders. This election is important in that the office to be filled is a major one within the governmental framework. Because the secretary of communications is a major link between the student government and the students and faculty, a responsible, capable person should be selected to fill the position. To insure that a capable person is elected, each of us should seriously consider the candidates and then take the time to vote.

On February 1 the Senate will vote on the proposal for an amendment to the constitution concerning a change in the student senator election procedure. Familiarize yourself with the proposal, take a stand on the issue and contact your student senator to express your opinion.

Show an interest in the affairs of your government. Apathy is a sign of mediocrity; interest and concern denote superior citizenship.

Archival Materials Come From Places Far And Near

By CHARLES HUGHES

Many people use the words: "library," "museum," and "archives" as if they had the same meaning; but each has its own distinct definition. According to Webster, a library is "a building where a collection of books are kept for reading or reference," a museum is "a building for preserving artistic, historical or scientific subjects," and an archive is "a place where public records or documents are kept."

Such a place is the UTMB archives. Mainly, the documents have come from West Tennessee, but some material has been brought from as far as Arkansas and Texas. While many people have contributed material to the archives, much of it has been secured through the efforts of the students of UTMB.

The oldest document is a land grant deed dated 1793. Some of the most interesting pieces include the minutes of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America from 1907 to 1910 and the diary of an American Soldier who served in the Boxer Rebellion in China.

The value of the archives can easily be illustrated. UTMB is in the process of instituting some graduate work on this campus, and it is almost impossible to do graduate work without some primary or archive material, as opposed to secondary or library material. Also an efficient archive would encourage teachers to return and seek a post graduate degree.

At the present time, anyone wishing to do graduate work must travel to some place such as Nashville, Washington, D.C., or Illinois. When the UTMB archives began to offer its services, the graduate student may be saved not only much time and trouble but also a considerable amount of money.

Before archive material can be used by the public, it must be separated and classified. Much of the material is grouped in family collections, which through the experiences of one individual or one family tell the history of a certain period of time. Another way of grouping archive materials is by such subjects as religion, economics, law, education etc.

While material is needed in all fields and subjects, the two "neediest" groupings are those of churches and education. Almost no school or church records have been brought into the archives, and this part of the history of West Tennessee seems to be a blank so far.

Any material turned into the archives is recorded, as is the name of the donor. This material is then placed in a special room in the Old Science Building, and the older documents are placed in a special vault for safe-keeping.

Anyone who has such material and who wishes to turn it over to the archives may contact Mr. Langdon Unger in the ABL Building or any other history teacher. If you have such material, bring it to the archives, for this is an investment in the future when the present brings in the records of the past.

Cost Management Holds Conference In New Gymnasium

A cost management conference designed for business management personnel lacking in professional cost accounting education begins on campus today in the Field House.

The two-day agenda under the University of Tennessee Division of University Extension will encompass information concerning cost management practices.

According to Field Representative Edward L. Chester of the Extension Department, the conference, which is the first in a series to enable managers interested in professional development to grasp progressive practices, will attempt to encourage "the profitable operation of commercial or industrial business."

Carl P. Savage, an assistant professor of office administration here, will serve as moderator of the conference which started at 8:30 a.m. University Chancellor Paul Meek will extend a welcome to those attending. Among the speakers will be faculty members Wesley O. Fortner, accounting professor, Dr. William H. Baker, business administration department head, Wilber L. Washburn and Howard E. Jones, accounting professors, and marketing and management instructor, William H. Tolley. Registration for the affair was open to anyone although it was intended primarily "for managers and potential managers."

Young Republicans Adopt Constitution

The next meeting will be on Monday, January 24, at 7:45 p.m.

SG Petition Deadline Set For January 18

Petitions must be in by January 18.

Newly Arrived Thailand Student Expounds On USA And Education

By CARL MANNING

Imagine the difficulties, dilemmas, and delightful experiences you would encounter if you attended college 10,000 miles from your home. Incomprehensible? Well, such is the case with Pongsak Patamapongse, a student from Bangkok, Thailand, who transferred from U-T Knoxville to here this quarter. Pongsak has set the record for being the student from the furthest place, according to the registrar office.

P. PATAMAPONGSE

Born in Bangkok in 1943, he is the second child in family with four other children--two brothers and two sisters, one of whom is older than he. His father owns an exporting firm, which sends shrimp throughout the world and he plans to return to Bangkok to run his father's business once he has received his degree in business administration from this school. Pongsak came to the United States, at his parent's expense, in 1962 where he entered Washington College Academy in Washington County, Tennessee. From there he went to Warren Junior College in North Carolina and then to U-T at Knoxville. After one year at Knoxville, he decided to transfer to this campus.

In talking with Pongsak, one can learn that there are many similarities and differences between the two countries. For instance, Bangkok which has a population of two million is not so different from our own metropolitan areas, in that it has its sprawling suburbs just like American cities. The principle crop of the country is rice. Tin and jute are the major exports. The climate is of a tropical nature with the average temperature being around 80 degrees.

Pongsak said it was easy for him to distinguish Americans as to North and South geography. In the North, he said, the people are always in a hurry and are rushing while in the South things seem to be slower and more relaxed.

In talking about Martin, he said that he thought it to be "very small" compared to towns where he has previously lived. He quickly noted, however, that he could not give a true and accurate opinion at this time since he had just arrived in Martin early this week.

One difference between the two countries is the alphabet that is used. In Thailand the alphabet consists of 44 letters, none of which looks like our own. His native alphabet, Pongsak pointed out, is not like that of China's, but rather of the type used by Laos.

Another difference he mentioned was in the educational system. In Thailand there are only five colleges for a population of 30 million and entrance requirements are based on the grades and admittance begins with the top grade and works down. Therefore it is possible to be a good student and still not be able to go to school there. Pongsak said he preferred American classrooms because the courses are taught faster, and in his opinion they are easier to learn.

Thailand is located only 200-300 miles from Viet-Nam, but Pongsak said that it has not suffered any from the conflict.

He quickly dispelled any ideas that Thailand was a land where people still dress in Oriental fashion and live on past tradition. The young people there dress much the same as we do in America and are becoming more "Westernized" than ever before. There is, Pongsak noted, very little clash between the "old" and the "new."

Faculty Recital Features Stout

Mrs. Johnnie W. Stout, soprano, will present a faculty recital Monday evening, January 17, at 8 p.m. in the Music Building Auditorium.

Mrs. Stout has sung professionally with the Roger Wagner Chorale, and has sung leading roles in both opera and musical comedy at the University of Indiana, where she received her Master of Arts degree. She has been soloist with the Las Cruces, New Mexico, Symphony Orchestra, and has sung tour recitals. She has taught music in New Mexico and Iowa. and Mrs. Mike Barker, all alumni, formed a panel to discuss questions asked by the SNEA members. Mr. Fields is a teacher here at UTMB, Mrs. Barker teaches math at

Peabody High in Trenton, and Mr. Barker is West Tennessee

Science Supervisor. Questions concerning teacher's salaries, problems of adjustment as student teachers and teachers, and the advantages of attending graduate school were the main topics discussed. The program was concluded with the alumni giving advice to the future teachers.

As It Looks From Here

By BILL BENSON

If I had to single out the reasons for the Vol's early success in the 1965-66 basketball season, they would have to be balance and depth.

A quick glance at the Stat book is all the proof needed. In the scoring column no individual has dominated every game although Ron Armstrong has 103 points for the team's highest average 12.8 per game. Close behind the leader are Moore Landers with 11.8, Don High with 11.9, and Jerry Lacy with 9.8 points a game.

Of course, bench strength is always a factor, and this year the Vols have it.

Behind the front five, coach Burdette has some of the finest reserves in a long while. Sophomore guards Byron Kuehner and Robert Barger have consistently produced when called on. Under the boards, the Orangemen can use any of six forwards and two big centers.

You might liken the Vols to a leaky roof. As soon as one leak is plugged another appears. With the tall Vols, if one boy is off another usually starts hitting.

Speaking of the schedule --

Men's Basketball Slated For Winter

The first men's open basketball tournament is being held this week in the new gym.

Each game consists of four six-minute periods, and in case of a tie, a two minute overtime will be played.

The teams and team managers are as follows: Wild Cherries, Rondald Dye; Tex Ins, Dennis Carlson; Black Cats, James Latimer; Dead End Kids, Gene Hardy; Rebels, Don Simmons; Cleats, Mack Moody;

Falcons, Ronnie Horn; ISA Avengers, David Smith; BSU'ers, Gib Tucker, and Football Frosh, Earl Hook and Jimmy Jones.

Basketball Tourney Slated For Jan. 17

The first round of the women's open basketball tournament will be held January 17 in the Old Physical Education Building.

Tournament drawings will be held on January 14 at 5 p.m. in the old gym.

A game shall consist of four six-minute quarters. In case of a tie, a two minute overtime will be played.

Shuffleboard Entries Are Being Accepted

The physical education department is now accepting entries for the mixed shuffleboard intramurals from January 13 to January 27.

Each team consists of one man and one woman who have agreed to play together throughout the tournament.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the intramural offices in either the old or new gym.

the Vols begin a long important four game road series. Sandwiched between Austin Peay and Delta State, the Volunteers will face two top VSAC foes, CBC and Union. I know Vol cagers will be glad to play at home again.

Oh, yes, thank goodness for the South's second half comeback in last Saturday's Senior Bowl -- reference to last week's As It Looks From Here.

A well done should go to the fine T-Club dance after Saturday night's ball game. We need more of the same.

By the way, for UTMB students going to Memphis this weekend, your support Saturday could make a big difference in the CBC game.

Intramural Sports Now In Progress

First rounds of shuffleboard and badminton for women have been scheduled.

The first round of the women's shuffleboard intramurals will be held January 17 at 6 p.m. in the old gym.

The tournament will be single elimination, with matches consisting of a 50 point game.

Medals will be given to both the winner and runner-up.

The pairings for the women's open badminton tournament are now posted in the old gym. The exact playing dates will be posted on the intramural board outside the women's physical education department.

The tournament will be single elimination with a match consisting of two out of three 11 point games.

Medals will be presented to both the winner and runner-up.

Frat Basketball Starts February 1

Fraternity basketball will be held on February 1-2 in the new gym.

The first round will pit Alpha Tau Omega against Alpha Gamma Rho and Phi Sigma Kappa against Pi Kappa Alpha.

The tournament will be single elimination, and the winner will receive a trophy.

Florence State Is First Match Winter Quarter

With a 5-2 record behind it for fall quarter, the Rifle Team will participate in its first match this quarter on January 15 at Florence State.

It will shoot against Vanderbilt there on February 5, against Ole Miss here on March 5, and against U-T Knoxville here on March 26.

On November 13 the team beat Middle Tennessee State. High scorer was Lynn McKinzie. The rest of the top five scorers were Joe Cothran, Robert Cothran, Larry Walker and Johnny Young. Cathy Rudd was the high scorer among the girls.

Larry Walker was the high scorer in the match against Ole Miss November 20. The other top scorers were Johnny Young, Larry Wilson, Joe Cothran and Ron Bailey. The Girl's Rifle Team also won against Ole Miss, with Cathy Rudd the top scorer. Nancy Snow and Joan Aldridge also ranked high.

Vanderbilt was beaten here by the team on December 4 with Larry Walker taking the match honors. The rest of the top five was composed of Joe Cothran, Ron Bailey, Robert Cothran and Larry Wilson.

In other matches last fall, the team won one and lost one in the Invitational Match at Murray, Kentucky. It won a match against Middle Tennessee State and lost a match at U-T Knoxville.

Club Interests Rather Aquatic

An organizational meeting has been set up for all students interested in forming a Dolphin Club for January 18 at 6 p.m. in the classroom of the old gym.

According to Miss Gay Little, the purposes of the Dolphin Club will be to enjoy swimming, learn water stunts, and learn synchronized swimming.

If enough interest is shown, the Dolphin Club will present a water show sometime during spring quarter.

ODDITY AND USELESS INFORMATION

The "Stars and Bars" was never the Confederate flag, rather it was the battle flag of General P. T. G. Beauregard, who designed it to avoid confusion in battle.

Orange Preserves Perfect Record By Beating Belmont In VSAC Game

Saturday night the Vols crushed Belmont College of Nashville 86-66. This win gives the Vols a perfect 4-0 VSAC conference record and leaves the Orangemen 5-3 overall.

UTMB cagers combined a balanced scoring attack, airtight defense and devastating rebounding to down the Rebels for the second time. In Nashville, the Vols finished hard to dump the fast moving Rebs 68-63.

Sophomore forward Don Ray High and co-captain Jerry Lacy hit in double figures for the Vols with 22 and 13 points respectively. High's 22-point performance boosts him to the squads second leading scorer with 92 markers.

The Vols hit a brisk 53 per cent from the floor as Kuehner, Burnette and Landers scored nine each; Martin and Goehring hit for 8 apiece and Barger, Armstrong and Glover rounded out the scoring with four, three and one, respectively.

The Orangemen's sticky man to man defensive play held Belmont to only 20 two-pointers on 53 attempts. High scorer for both quintets was Belmont guard C. A. Melsel with 37. Melsel hit nine baskets and 19 of 22 free throws.

Rebounding proved the old adage "you can't score without the ball" as the Volunteers hauled in 42 rebounds to only 20 for the Rebels. 6'6" center, Micky Martin, grabbed off six and Don High snagged seven.

Thursday night the Vols began a four game road stint when they journey to Clarksville, Tennessee to tangle with Austin Peay State College in a non-conference tilt.

Ohio Valley Conference member APSC holds a 12-7 series edge over the Vols. Last season the Volunteers whipped the Governors 58-48 in the first game but the Gobs edged UTMB 70-69 in the rematch.

After Austin Peay, the Vols travel to conference opponent Christian Brothers College in Memphis Saturday night.

Saturday night's game with CBC will be a crucial one. With only six more conference games remaining, a victory over the Buccaneers will mean added insurance for the balance of the VSAC schedule.

With CBC forwards Mike Stander and Joe Bauer averaging 23.7 and 12.5 points a game the Bucs have an abundance of scoring power.

New opponents last season was the first time UTMB and CBC played. The series record is even with the Vols taking the first 91-82 and dropping the second 84-74.

The Vols should be in good physical shape for both Thursday and Saturday's games with the exception of co-captain Moore Landers. Landers had been hampered with illness and a slight sprain but should be ready for action Thursday.
